1: The History

The Paterson Arran journey has been a far call from what the Patersons of Rutherglen would ever have dreamed of back in 1895 when they started selling home-baked oatcakes.

Having gone through a number of changes in ownership during the 60s, 70s and 80s, the company ended up in the portfolio of what is now Edrington as they expanded away from their core market of whisky. In the early 90s, Paterson's was merged with The Bronte Biscuit Company, which was also part of The Edrington portfolio, and, in 1994, Paterson's was merged with Arran Provisions - another Edrington food business. This latter merger was led by the current Finance Director, Ian Appleton.

To ensure the success of the newly merged business, in 1995, they brought in Alan Hardie as Managing Director and, following an unsuccessful trade sale but comfortable in the knowledge they had a great business, Alan and Ian led an MBO. Edrington, positive about the company, retained a small share of the business (24.9%) which it continues to hold to this day.

2: The Company

Over the last 25 years the company has developed through organic growth which has seen them double their turnover since 2006 to $c\pounds 25m$ with a net profit of $c\pounds 1.8m$ and a very strong balance sheet.

The company has a strong portfolio of brands which are easily recognised from their regular appearance in the multiples, foodservice, leisure, gift and travel sectors:

The company has retained the pride in their products and the strong sense of responsibility that has served them well for over 120 years, and has clear ambitions for the business going forward.

Although primarily a brand manufacturer, the company is also a strong player in the private label sector with a wide portfolio of blue chip customers.

The changes currently underway provide the opportunity to join a business which is strong financially and has a successful product range, expanding markets, strong technical capability and a settled work force. The planned changes within the executive team allow the opportunity to step into positions of strength and bring your own style and experience to drive further growth and efficiencies.

3: Background to the Current Opportunity

As part of a planned retirement, Alan Hardie has stepped down as Managing Director and will undertake the role of Non-Executive Chairman. Ian Appleton, current Finance Director, is also retiring later in 2018 and will become a Non-Executive Director of the business.
